

Willkie Rejects Idea of Passive One-Party Front

Republican Candidate Warns Against Any Silent Acceptance of All Principles

Gives 5 Points Sees Inflation as No. 1 Danger, Suggests Remedies

New York, Nov. 12 (AP)—Wendell L. Willkie has rejected as a "totalitarian idea" any suggestion that the minority "surrender its conviction" and join the majority for the sake of a united front.

The defeated Republican Presidential candidate counseled his followers in a radio address last night to constitute themselves a "loyal opposition" during the next four years, but cautioned against "opposing things just for the sake of opposition."

Concluding his remarks by quoting Lincoln's famous "with malice toward none" address, Willkie preceded this with a departure from his prepared text affirming his belief that President Roosevelt would keep the nation out of war unless attacked.

"Mr. Roosevelt and I both promised the people in the course of the campaign that if we were elected we would keep this country out of war unless attacked," Willkie said. "Mr. Roosevelt was re-elected and this solemn pledge for him I know will be fulfilled and I know the American people desire him to keep it sacred."

Taking cognizance of post-election speculation that he might be offered a federal post in the interest of national unity, Willkie said that the American form of government was not designed to embrace such a conception.

One Dominant Party
"This would mean," he said, "that in the United States of America there would be only one dominant party—only one economic philosophy—only one political philosophy of life. This is a totalitarian idea—it is a slave idea—it must be rejected utterly."

"A vital element in the balanced operation of democracy is a strong, alert and watchful opposition. That is our task for the next four years. We must constitute ourselves a vigorous, loyal and public-spirited opposition party."

To those who had written him since the election urging that the "cause we have been fighting for be carried on," Willkie expressed hope that they would continue the "thousands of organizations" founded during the campaign in his behalf. But, he added, it was not appropriate that they be continued "in my name."

"I do not want this great cause to be weakened by even a semblance of any personal advantage to any individual. I feel too deeply about it for that. 1944 will take care of itself."

Fears Inflation
Chief among dangers facing the nation, Willkie said, was that of inflation. To counteract this and "to correct some economic errors," he proposed five steps:

Cut to the bone federal expenditures except for national defense and necessary relief.
Allow private capital "as far as possible" to build the plants and machinery for defense.

Levy taxes approaching "as nearly as possible" the pay-as-you-go plan.
"Take the breaks off private enterprise by adjusting taxes and government restrictions to give freedom 'under wise regulation' to release new investments and new energies, thus increasing national income."

A change by the government of its "punitive attitude toward both little and big businessmen."

Treasury Receipts
Washington, Nov. 12 (AP)—The position of the Treasury Nov. 8: Receipts $33,520,562.85. Expenditures $39,860,487.21. Net balance $2,036,935,530.58. Working balance included $1,299,017,161.23. Customs receipts for month $7,343,409.28. Receipts for fiscal year (July 1) $1,960,940,511.42. Expenditures $3,446,488,414.69. Excess of expenditures $1,485,847,903.27. Gross debt $44,179,483,812.08. Increase over previous day $5,158,074.42. Gold assets $21,609,955,514.01.

Flynn Signs Spending
Washington, Nov. 12 (AP)—Edward J. Flynn, chairman of the Democratic national committee, said today that Republican and Democratic partisans both had spent more than $3,000,000 in the presidential campaign, but that the Republicans spent "much more than we did." He said it was for congressional committees to decide whether either party violated the Hatch act limiting presidential campaign expenditures to $3,000,000.

Politicians Study Willkie's Speech As Guide for G.O.P.

Washington Observers See Threefold Legislative Program; Personal Activity Expected

Washington, Nov. 12 (AP)—Wendell L. Willkie's postscript speech of the 1940 presidential election received careful study in the capital's political circles today as the first definite outline of the course of action mapped for the Republican party during the coming third Roosevelt administration.

While seeking to assess the full implications of everything in Willkie's New York speech last night, politicians manifested general agreement that this threefold Republican legislative program was indicated:

Full support of all defense efforts and aid to Britain, with some reservations as to method.

Equal approval for laws dealing with the rights of labor, assistance to the farmer, and protection of the jobless, aged and physically infirm, but again with reservations as to method.

Unrelenting opposition to "unlimited spending of borrowed money—the piling up of bureaucracy . . . —the concentration of enormous power in the hands of the executive—the discouragement of enterprise—and the continuance of economic dependence for millions of our citizens upon the government," as Willkie phrased it.

The titular head of the Republican party did not mention foreign policy specifically, but said he and his followers did not believe in verbal provocation to war—a reference recalling his campaign charges that Mr. Roosevelt had indulged in such practices.

Some capital circles were inclined to read into the Willkie speech advance notice that he intended to continue an active figure in Republican party affairs—perhaps even more so than Herbert Hoover did after his 1932 defeat or Alf M. Landon after the 1936 rout.

"I shall not be silent," Willkie promised his supporters, "and I hope you will not be."

Support Develops For Treasury Bid

Senator George Believes Tax Increase and Debt Expansion Inevitable

Washington, Nov. 12 (AP)—Congressional support developed today for a proposal by Secretary Morgenthau to increase taxes and expand the government's borrowing authority to facilitate financing of the defense program.

Senator George (D., Ga.) of the Senate finance committee, said he believed that an increase in both taxes and the present $49,000,000,000 debt limitation was "inevitable."

The treasury secretary has said that he might ask Congress to relax immediately the restrictions that permit $4,000,000,000 of the present borrowing power to be used only for defense financing. He said the old $45,000,000,000 limitation was "practically reached" and the treasury might face an embarrassing position later unless the next Congress boosted the authority to $60,000,000,000 or more.

Coupled with discussions of the tax situation were renewed debates in session instead of adjourning until (Continued on Page Seven)

Eric the Lowly Becomes New Hero Of Woodlands and Is Pampered Pet

Washington, Nov. 12 (AP)—The American Wildlife Institute today hailed the lowly and unpopular skunk as the new woodland hero of the land.

The much-avoided little animal has proven his right to recognition on the hushed slopes of the New York Conservation Department's Saratoga nursery, world's largest forest tree production plant.

It happened this way: Zealously cultivating several million seedlings and transplants, the Saratoga scientists suddenly became alarmed when they discovered the nursery tract harbored almost as many grub worms and tree shoots.

A grub worm, if you don't know, feels the same way about a future tree as a cat does about a canary.

Dog Comes Home

"Nicky," the little dog who disappeared with Murray Upshaw, Jr., November 8, licks Mrs. Murray Upshaw, Sr.'s, grief-stricken face after being found not far from the Upshaw farm home near Cartersville, Ga. The body of the boy was found in the woods about a mile and a half from his home today.

Germans Abandon Military Work to Aid Quake Victims

In Addition to Loss of Oil and Damage to Plants, Agriculture Suffers Great Setback

Bucharest, Rumania, Nov. 12 (AP)—The German army's preparation of military bases in Rumania was abandoned temporarily today as Nazi troops did rescue work among the ruins of homes, shops and factories razed by Sunday's devastating earthquake.

Reports from the quake-wrenched oil fields indicated damage to refineries was widespread, but enough oil remained in undamaged reservoirs to assure undiminished shipments for the Reich war machine.

Some observers, however, pointed out another handicap to the German program in the earthquake's partial disruption of agriculture. Much fall plowing is not yet completed, and tens of thousands of peasants will be called from the land to aid in reconstruction, putting a drain on the nation's labor supply.

German army tanks and trucks, as well as men, are participating in the rehabilitation and relief work. Even some Rumanians who are opposed to German military control of the country have expressed appreciation for the prompt aid.

More Bodies Recovered
German soldiers and Rumanian Iron Guards have recovered 260 more bodies from wrecked cities where the total death toll was estimated at 1,000 to 2,000, with untold others injured and homeless.

Once-beautiful Bucharest was scarred with charred ruins where fire followed the building-cracking shocks.

Fires broke out, too, in the tinder-box oil fields, but most of the blazes were small and brought under control quickly.

Throughout the fields, which are one of Germany's major sources of supply, damage to refineries was great. Preliminary examination, however, disclosed that although some reservoirs were cracked, most of the petroleum supplies had been saved.

Most of the pipelines and railroad facilities with which the petroleum is removed for shipment to Germany were intact.

Some refineries will be shut down two or three weeks for repairs, it was said.

Violent Storms Sweep Eastward From Rocky Mountains; Damage Is Extensive

Gale Reported Winds Reach Velocity of 80 Miles in West, 67 at Elmira

(By The Associated Press)

Freezing weather overspread the middlewest today in the wake of furious gales that battered the mid-continent, causing death or injury to scores of persons and extensive property damage.

The mercury sank below zero in the Dakotas, Montana and Wyoming while sub-freezing temperatures were general from the Rockies to beyond the Mississippi.

At least 24 deaths were attributed to the violent wind, rain and snowstorms that swept eastward yesterday from the Rocky Mountains. Property damage was reckoned in the hundreds of thousands.

The gale raced across the northern tier of states with gusts attaining a velocity of 80 miles in Wisconsin, 67 in Elmira, N. Y., 65 in Chicago, 63 at St. Louis and 54 in Cleveland.

The violent winds uprooted trees, smashed windows, tore cornices from buildings, leveled frame buildings, broke radio towers, crumpled huge steel electric signs, and ripped away power and communication lines.

20 Families Homeless
Tornado winds struck Louisiana, Arkansas and Tennessee. Twenty families were left homeless when the storm struck Crockett Mills, Tenn., causing damage expected to exceed $150,000.

Snow blanketed much of the western half of the continent, piling up drifts that crippled reconstruction in Minnesota, Nebraska, Iowa, South Dakota, and Utah.

Three persons were killed in Wisconsin and fears were expressed for the safety of eight duck hunters on a barren, treeless island in the Wisconsin river near portage.

A blizzard that struck Minnesota left highways clogged and communication facilities impaired. Thousands of automobiles were stalled and hundreds of persons marooned in rural areas. Seven deaths were counted in Minnesota.

Boat Is Wrecked On Lake Michigan Pulpwood Carrier's Life Belt Is Washed Ashore

Muskegon, Mich., Nov. 12 (AP)—Wreckage from the 253-foot pulpwood carrier Novadoc, last sighted off Little Point Sauble during yesterday's Lake Michigan gale, washed ashore today at Juniper Beach near Pentwater, Mich. Shipping circles here said the vessel ordinarily would carry a crew of 16 to 20 men.

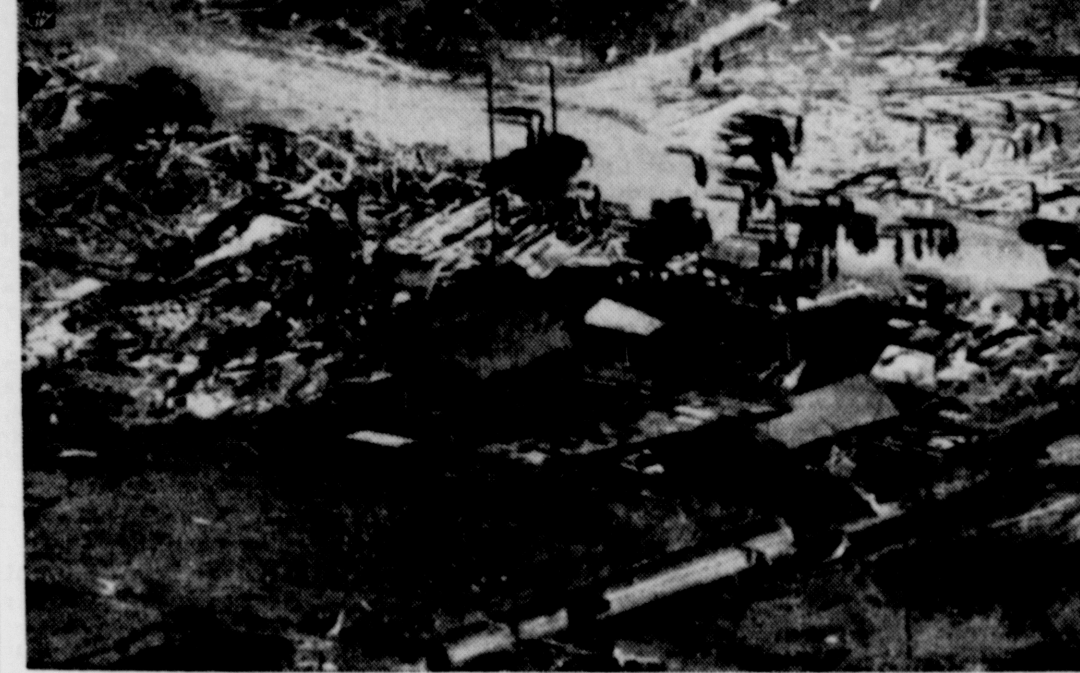

The Little Point Sauble Light-house keeper reported he saw the Novadoc's lights at 7:30 p. m. Monday, but that soon the ship disappeared.

The wreckage washed ashore today included a life belt bearing the Novadoc's name.

The vessel, built in 1928, has a gross tonnage of 1,934. It was en route from South Chicago to Fort William, Ont., its home port.

Bishop Is Consecrated
Hartford, Conn., Nov. 12 (AP)—Episcopal bishops from throughout the United States participated today in ceremonies consecrating the Very Rev. Walter H. Gray, D. D., as suffragan bishop of the diocese of Connecticut—second youngest bishop of the Episcopal Church in America.

Tornadic Wind Spreads Death and Destruction

Terrific winds which scaled up to 63 miles an hour, killed nine persons, injured at least 70 and leveled several homes and small buildings in broad sections of the midwest and south. Here is an air-view of Crockett Mills, Tenn., where one person was injured, showing leveled stores, wreckage of a new school and frame buildings.

Three Blasts Take 11-21 Lives; Federal Bureau Begins Probes

Hoover Orders Complete Report on Allentown Blast; Plant Held U. S. Contracts

Washington, Nov. 12 (AP)—Preliminary investigations of blasts which destroyed life and property at three explosives manufacturing plants today was undertaken immediately by the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Whether government agents would take charge of the full inquiry into all three disasters appeared to depend on whether substantial federal interests were found in each instance.

Although officials declined comment, there was no doubt that Chief J. Edgar Hoover had ordered his men to make a full report on the explosion which wrecked the plant of the Trojan Powder Company at Allentown, Pa. That company held army contracts.

The other two explosions smashed buildings of the United Railway and Signal Corporation at Woodbridge, N. J., manufacturer of torpedoes and signal flares—and of the Burton Powder Company at Edinburg, Pa.

So far as could be determined neither of the last two named held government contracts but a preliminary FBI investigation in such cases is virtually automatic since government interests may be involved indirectly. In Newark, it was reported that FBI agents departed for Woodbridge soon after the explosion occurred.

Local Christmas Clubs to Pay Out $375,000 for 1940

Checks to Go Out This Year November 28 and Sum Will Be $35,000 Over 1939 Total

Checks totaling approximately $375,000 will be distributed later in the month to the members of the Christmas Clubs in five of the banks of the city, an increase of about $35,000 over last year.

This year's checks will be dated November 28.

Nationally $365,000,000 will be distributed to more than seven and one half million Christmas Club members by approximately 4,800 banking and savings institutions and other organizations this year, according to an estimate given out by Herbert F. Rawll, founder and president of Christmas Club, a corporation.

The total distribution for 1940 is about 4 1/2 per cent in excess of 1939. The average distribution per member amounts to $48.50 as against $48.80 for 1939. The estimates are based on a substantial number of reports received from institutions operating the Christmas Club plan in different sections of the country.

Based upon recent reports from individual Christmas Club members and applying these reports to the entire distribution for 1940, the estimated fund of $365,000,000 will be used by the recipients for Christmas purchases, permanent savings, year end bills, taxes, insurance premiums, education, travel and charity, mortgage interest, etc.

General Pershing Makes Personal Plea For Wholehearted Support of Red Cross

Washington, D. C.—A plea for every patriotic American to support the American Red Cross through joining as a member was made today by General John J. Pershing. The general of the armies and former commander of the A.E.F., is a member of the board of incorporators of the Red Cross and long has been an active member of the organization.

His statement urging support of the Red Cross in the present emergency situation, follows:

"At a time when we hear so much of preparedness, it is well to consider the resources of human sympathy. I speak of the American Red Cross and the vital part it plays in the well-being of our nation in time of emergency. Obligations which have arisen from the national defense program out-

First Explosion Razes Plant in New Jersey and Others Occur in Pennsylvania

(By The Associated Press)

In tragic, startling sequence, explosions today rocked two powder plants—one engaged in filling defense orders—and a factory manufacturing railway torpedo signals.

From eleven to twenty-one persons were estimated dead. An undetermined number were injured.

First of the blasts razed the plant of the United Railway and Signal Company at Woodbridge, N. J., about 15 miles from Manhattan. At least five were killed and more than a score injured, some critically, among the 100 employees, mostly girls. Communities in the populous area were shaken by the explosion.

Second of the blasts ripped apart the Burton powder works of the American Cyanamid Corporation, in the village of Edinburg, two miles west of New Castle in western Pennsylvania—killing three men, a deputy coroner reported.

At least three other persons died in the third explosion, at the Trojan Powder Company plant on the outskirts of Allentown, Pa. There were no injured.

The Trojan Company held at least one defense order for $81,000 worth of explosives for the army.

So far as could be determined, the two other firms held no defense contracts.

Death Toll Is Not Known

Woodbridge, N. J., Nov. 12 (AP)—At least five persons were killed today in an explosion which razed the plant of the United Railway and Signal Corporation near here. State police headquarters at Trenton received a report there were 15 known dead, 10 missing and 35 injured.

Many of the injured were in a critical condition. The Perth Amboy General Hospital admitted seven and the Rahway hospital (Continued on Page Five)

Moscow Remains Silent on Import of Journey to Berlin; Meeting Is Not Gay

Athens Charges Italian Troops Are Fleeing in Disorder

(By The Associated Press)

Adolf Hitler today received Premier-Foreign Commissar Vyacheslav Molotoff of Soviet Russia—once the target of Hitler's bitter scorn—amid indications that Russia would be asked to join the Berlin-Rome-Tokyo Axis for building a "new world order."

Presumably, Hitler was bargaining with Molotoff for a Russian "hands off" policy in the Balkans and Near East.

Unlike other state receptions, when German bands have met visiting diplomats by playing their national anthems, the band at the Anhalter station where Molotoff arrived, lapsed into silence as soon as the Soviet envoy had finished taking the salute.

Nevertheless, Nazis said the visit was of great consequence and indicated that Hitler would invite Russia to enter the triple alliance of Germany, Italy and Japan.

As usual, Moscow was silent on the import of Molotoff's mission. In the 16-day-old Balkan conflict, meanwhile, Bedgrade dispatches said a new Italian drive was pushing Greek troops back from the heights of Koritza, 10 miles inside Albania, where 30,000 Italian soldiers were previously reported "trapped" under constant shellfire from Greek mountain batteries.

Two Furious Attacks

Advices from the Yugoslav frontier said Premier Mussolini's Fascist columns made two furious attacks on the heights, forcing the Greeks to retreat to their side of the frontier.

In direct contrast to this report, Athens said shattered Italian forces were retreating in disorder along the whole 100-mile war front, with Greek troops pursuing them under heavy bombing assaults.

The Greek high command said Greek mountain troops, supported by cavalry, were mopping up behind the routed Italians and consolidating their gains despite "intense activity" of Fascist warplanes.

A Greek government spokesman said the flight of Italy's Centaur Alpine division in the Pindus mountains had "created panic behind the Italian lines," and he added:

"It's a good start. We're satisfied."

Mussolini's high command devoted one paragraph of its Daily Communique to the Grecian campaign, declaring:

"On the Epirus front (in north-west Greece), enemy attacks on Kalibaki were completely smashed. Our air force carried out intense, repeated bombardments of military objectives at Ioannina, Metsovo, Kastoria, Corfu, Larissa and the Isthmus of Lake Prespa. All our planes returned."

The high command acknowledged that bombing planes presumed to be British attacked Italy's main naval base at Taranto, near the "instep" of the Italian boot, badly damaging a warship. It reported six, and possibly nine, of the raiders were shot down.

Night Raids Carried Out

A Greek communique reported that British planes carried out destructive night raids on the important Albanian ports of Durazzo and Valona, setting fires visible 100 miles at Durazzo and blowing up a munitions dump at Valona.

An Italian radio broadcast asserted that the Fascist navy has cut away more than 12 miles of sea cable between Britain's Mediterranean strongholds of Malta and Gibraltar, thus severing connections between London and the Near East.

Whatever the outcome of Soviet Premier Molotoff's visit to Berlin, it appeared to bode no good for Britain, Turkey or Greece.

The semi-official Turkish radio said a German military move in the Balkans to aid Italy's stale-mated campaign in Greece appeared imminent, and it seemed likely that Molotoff, in that event, was being asked to keep hands off.

Foreign observers in Istanbul interpreted the Molotoff visit as a diplomatic setback for Turkey, who has a military alliance with Britain and at the same time is strongly under Russian influence.

Turkey has vowed that "2,000,000 bayonets" will oppose any Axis attempt to cross Turkey for an assault on the Near East, where, high British quarters said yesterday, a major theatre of the war is expected to develop this winter.

Ardonia Farmer Takes Own Life

Gaylord Glenn, Saddened by Death of Wife, Shoots Himself in Barn

Lonesome and despondent since the death of his wife about six months ago, Gaylord Glenn, 57, well known and popular Ardonia farmer and fruit grower, took his own life at noon Tuesday.

Glenn's body was found about 1:15 o'clock by Charles DeGradt, a farmhand, in a building some distance from the house, used for packing of apples and storage purposes. Lying alongside the body was a shotgun, the muzzle of which evidently had been placed against the left temple, the charge tearing away practically the entire left side of the head.

DeGradt told Coroner Norvin R. Lasher of Saugerties that he had left Glenn about 11:45 o'clock to go to dinner. He did not see him around on his return and on searching the premises found the body as stated. The state police were notified and Troopers Metzger and Baker of the B. C. I., conducted an investigation, notifying Coroner Lasher and the district attorney's office.

Glenn left a brief note to his mother, saying that he was sorry, but he was just too lonesome. The coroner gave a verdict of suicide by shooting. The body was turned over to the Sutton Funeral Home, Clintondale.

The only near survivor is the mother, who kept house for Glenn.

Says Friend's Only Grief Was That He Would Not Be Spectator at Final Victory

London, Nov. 12 (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill told the House of Commons today that Neville Chamberlain died "with confidence that we had turned the corner, his only grief that he would not be a spectator at our final victory," although "long hard and hazardous years are ahead."

In tribute to his predecessor as prime minister, who died Saturday, Churchill said his strenuous efforts for peace had established that Britain was "guiltless of the blood and terror and misery which have engulfed so many lands and peoples and yet seek new victims still."

"Herr Hitler protests with frantic words and gestures that he only desired peace," the prime minister declared.

"What do these ravings and outpourings count before the silence of Neville Chamberlain's tomb?"

House Cheers Statement

The house responded with subdued cheers when Churchill declared that "though long and hazardous years lie before us, at least we enter upon them united and with clean hearts."

"The only guide to a man is his conscience," Churchill said, "the only shield to his memory is the rectitude and sincerity of his actions. . . . With his shield, however the fates may play, we march always in the ranks of honor."

It fell to Neville Chamberlain, in one of the supreme crises of the world, to be contradicted by events, to be disappointed in his hopes and to be deceived and cheated by a wicked man. . . . We can be sure that Neville Chamberlain acted with perfect sincerity, according to his lights, and strove to the utmost of his capacity and authority, which were powerful, to save the world from the awful devastating struggle in which we are now engaged."

In the House of Lords, Foreign Secretary Lord Halifax, who held his post also under Chamberlain's administration, said his former chief never relaxed his efforts to prepare Britain for war, even while doing his utmost to avoid war.

"One great fact he was able to accomplish," Halifax said, "was that, when war came, it came to a country united."

Mrs. Ellen Johnson Fox, widow of Robert Fox, of Allaben, died at the home of her niece, Mrs. Royal Morris, in Chester, N. Y., today. Funeral services will be held from the E. B. Gormley Funeral Home in Phenicia, at a time to be announced.

Elmer Smith of Alligerville died at his home Monday at the age of 67. He was survived by his wife, Mrs. Breta Peterson Smith, and a daughter, Virginia Mary Smith, at home; and a sister, Mrs. Harry Golding of California. Funeral services, which are private, will be held from the H. B. Humiston Funeral Home Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Burial will be in Fairview Cemetery, New Paltz. The Rev. August F. Marlier of Kripplush will officiate.

The funeral of Mrs. John White, formerly of Kingston, who died Friday, was held Monday morning in St. Augustine Church in Ossining. A solemn high Mass was celebrated by Father O'Neill. Father Brown of Sylvan Lake and Father Delaney of St. Augustine Church assisted. Burial was in St. Mary's Cemetery. Fathers Hayes and Delaney accompanied the body to the cemetery and pronounced final oblation. The deceased is survived by her husband, John White, a sister, Mrs. John B. Rafferty, a niece, Mary Rafferty, and a nephew, Joseph Clark, of Poughkeepsie.

Army Finds Garand Rifle Is Accurate

Production Under Way to Equip 2,000,000 Men.

WASHINGTON.—The semi-automatic Garand rifle, comparatively new to the army although designed 11 years ago, is being manufactured on a mass production basis to equip an army of 2,000,000 men.

War department officials refused to disclose the present rate of production on the ground that it is a military secret and that "some people are very interested to know how fast the Garand is being produced and when we will have enough to equip such an army."

The Garand—a gas-operated, clipped, self-loading shoulder weapon—has been the subject of controversy for some time, with die-hards vigorously opposing its use.

Despite their objections, army ordnance put the rifle through a series of the hardest tests imaginable. It received a diploma from the school of the doughboy, showing it "truly is fit for the wars."

During these tests, the infantry board at Fort Benning, Ga., fired 40,000 rounds of ammunition from Garands, making every effort to duplicate the worst conditions likely to be encountered in an active campaign.

Prolonged firing with the Garand does not result in the bruised shoulder, cheek and nose familiar to those who have used other high-power rifles.

In all comparable tests between the semi-automatic Garand and the bolt-action Springfield shoulder rifle, conducted by the ordnance department, the new rifle demonstrated "marked superiority."

Lighthouse Has School

Unique on Continent
FREDERICTON, N. B.—Machias Seal Island, a lonely and forbidding pile of rocks nine miles off the coast of Maine, can boast of what is perhaps the oddest school on the North American continent.

The island itself is a part of Maine, but is leased to Canada. There, at the mouth of the Bay of Fundy, 12 miles from the Canadian island of Grand Manan, the dominion government maintains a large lighthouse for the protection of Bay of Fundy shipping.

The barren, rock-strewn island is maintained only by the two lighthouse keepers and their families, and Herbert W. Dayton, a young New Brunswick school teacher whom the government maintains on the island to instruct the three children of Mr. and Mrs. Earle Ingersoll, the second lighthouse keeper and his wife.

The school is in "The Castle," which formerly was the main light-house.

Goats Used for Harvest
In Southwest Mountains
LAS TRAMPAS, N. M.—Giant combines and gleaming new binders harvest the wheat in most of Twentieth century America but in the remote mountains of New Mexico—where the mail comes by buggy three times a week—the Spanish-Americans still use herds of goats instead of machines for the harvest.

It's an old custom handed down when Spanish conquistadores rode through what is now the great Southwest of the United States. As far as Juan and Pedro and the other "little people" of the New Mexico mountains are concerned it's still good enough.

On hard-packed ground the herd of thrashing goats is driven around and around. The wheat is under their sharp hooves and in moments the grain has been trampled into the dust, leaving only straw.

The primitive farmers shovel up the chaff and wheat and dirt and throw it into the air to clean it.

Jobs Increase 430,000;
Defense Work Credited
WASHINGTON.—Employment in non-agriculture occupations now totals 36,000,000, a gain of 1,130,000 as compared with August, 1939, Miss Frances Perkins, secretary of labor, reported. The increase in August over July was 430,000 workers. The total was the highest for any August except 1937.

"Expansion in industries manufacturing material for national defense continued to highlight the employment picture," Miss Perkins said. New highs were registered in shipbuilding, aircraft, engine, aluminum manufactures, machine tools and explosives.

Factory employment, Miss Perkins said, increased by 310,000 workers, more than double the usual seasonal gain. Factory pay rolls, she added, were $13,600,000, or 7.5 per cent greater than in July.

British Mother in U. S.
Sprints at Fire Siren
LITCHFIELD, CONN.—Neighbors looked amazed as Mrs. J. Matthews began sprinting toward her three children when the fire siren emitted its shrill blasts. Then they recalled that she was a "refugee from England."

"Every time I hear a siren I think I'm back in England, and it's an air-raid alarm," she said.

7,387,880 Shares Of Stock Sold in Market Last Week

Robert Laffan, "Abreast of the Market" man for the Wall Street Journal, discusses the problem that confronted a large body of voters when they tried to analyze domestic conditions during the last campaign—"why some campaigners could find so much fault with the business situation, while others point to it with pride." Outside of those whose political sympathies are firmly established and their economic thinking thereby colored, he finds two irreconcilable schools of opinion—"one regards a business upturn as a business upturn, regardless of how it is brought about; it considers itself 'practical' and is apt to regard emphasis on mounting public debt and taxes as so much gloominess, predictions of evil results to come as largely unproven." The other groups, he says, "points to the fact that public spending has only led to more public spending; that it leads up a blind alley where private enterprise will be further throttled. The advance in the stock market last week will be emphasized by the 'practical' people. The proposed boost in the debt limit to 60 or 65 billion dollars will add to the fears of those who are concerned over the means by which 'recovery' is being brought about."

As to the market, last week showed total sales of 7,387,880 shares on the Stock Exchange in five days, including Saturday's short session, with Election Day out. This was a week of million-share days, first in a long time and the total compared with 14,489,085 for the whole month of October.

In price gains, as figured in the Dow-Jones averages, the close Saturday, preceding the Armistice Day holiday, industrial issues had advanced $3.27 a share over the close on November 2, and rails were up .74 for the week. Utilities, however, continued to lag and had a net loss for the week of 1.39 points.

U. S. Steel led the market last week and gained 6½ points in turnover of 276,400 shares. There was a range of nearly 10 points between high and low quotations for steel during the week. A number of other issues had volumes of over 100,000 shares during the week.

Further hints as to what is the matter with securities representing the great utility businesses of the country is seen in the announcement today that the Securities and Exchange Commission is preparing a further lot of orders calling on additional utility company systems to simplify their corporate structures in accordance with the Utility Holding Company Act of 1935. Some of these orders probably will be issued within a few weeks and one of the more important systems to be called upon will be Commonwealth and Southern. The "integration" provisions of the act require each holding company system to reduce its holdings to one primary interconnected and coordinated operating system—plus any systems which are (a) in one state or adjoining states; (b) cannot operate independently without loss of efficiency; (c) do not constitute too large a system for economy, efficiency and local management. Views of the SEC as to how these ABC provisions should be interpreted are expected to be made known soon in connection with an outline of steps the commission holds should be followed by United Gas Improvement Co.

Names Omitted

The mayor's secretary announced today that through a clerical error the names of three members of the National Art Week Committee in Ulster county had been omitted from the list of members published in The Freeman. The three whose names were omitted are Mrs. E. C. Chadbourne of Stone Ridge, Mrs. E. W. Pemberton and Mrs. A. DuBois Rose of this city. The committee will meet with the mayor and the jury committee in the city hall on Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Military aviation, of course, depends chiefly on no single model. There must be trainers—such as North American, at Los Angeles, and Ryan, at San Diego, are turning out in large quantities. There must be observation planes and transports. But the pursuits and bombers captures the imagination.

More than 55,000 persons are employed in the manufacture of airplanes in California, an increase of 25,000 since Jan. 1.

Ellenville Barn Levelled by Fire

Blaze Threatens Village but Rain Was Help

What might easily have been a serious conflagration in the heart of the Ellenville business district was averted through good work by the Ellenville Fire Department, about 1 o'clock this morning.

The fire was in a barn, used for storage purposes, at the rear of the Jacobowitz meat market on Centre street. The barn was ruined inside, but the metal roof helped in controlling the flames and the heavy rain at the time also was of aid to the firemen.

Canal street, which runs parallel with Centre, was filled with dense smoke and the firemen found it necessary to use gas masks in fighting the fire.

Just back of the burning barn and not far distant on Canal street, is the large three-story frame building occupied by the Silverman Bros. store and just above that is the large frame Methodist Church building, with its two-story frame addition at the rear, just completed.

HIGHLAND NEWS

D. of A. Anniversary
Highland, Nov. 11—The celebration of the 27th anniversary of Ada McKinley Council 65, Daughters of America was attended by 95 persons in Odd Fellow's Hall Wednesday evening. At the same time the charter members were honored. Councilor Mrs. Cecile Petersen presided with all officers present except Mrs. Carrie Martin, chairman of trustees. The hall was attractive in its decorations of red, white and blue bunting, flags, streamers of crepe paper over the rostrum with the words, "Welcome 1913-1940," and vases of red berries and pine.

The drill was given by 12 members directed by the councilor. They wore red, white and blue sashes, the one on the leader bearing the words, "Charter," and at the end of the line the word "Members." Leaders were Mrs. Charlotte Salomon and Mrs. Florence E. Cotant. As they lined up in front, they sang a song dedicated to the charter members to the tune of "Anchors Aweigh," and as they marched out presented each charter member with red carnations.

Others in the drill were Mrs. Cora Parks, Mrs. Mamie Wood, Mrs. Rachel Rowley, Mrs. Katie Tompkins, Mrs. Bessie Vandervoort, Mrs. Elsa Swift, Miss Dorothy Churchill, Mrs. Viola Constable, Mrs. Daisy Mackey, Mrs. Carrie Atkins. During the meeting each charter member was escorted to the altar, introduced and presented with a remembrance from the council. Of the 21 charter members living, those present were: Mrs. Daisy Kurtz, Mrs. Louise Sheeley, Mrs. Carrie Jordan, Mrs. Martha C. Schantz, Mrs. Mabel E. L. Lent, Mrs. Grace Decker. Letters of regret were received from Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Aldrich, Grahamsville, and Mrs. Emily Brundage.

An invitation was received from Vanderlyn Council, Kingston, to attend a reception in honor of District Deputy Mildred Burgher of Kingston, Tuesday evening, November 12, at the rooms, 14 Henry street. A letter was read from State Councilor Grace Simpson urging members to attend church service in keeping with Thanksgiving. District Deputy Mrs. Burgher announced a union service of all councils of the district would be held at the Church of the Redeemer, Rogers street, Kingston, Sunday evening, November 24. Plans will be completed at the next meeting of the local council, November 20.

State officers received and honored were District Deputy Mildred Burgher, Kingston; Mrs. Anna Minkler, deputy of the local council, Saugerties; Associate State Councilor Mrs. Goldie Gerhardt, Kingston; Mrs. Suzanne E. Decker, past state councilor, Highland; Mrs. Tressa Swibold, deputy of Rondout council, Ellenville; from Napanoch; Mrs. Marie Odell, deputy of Imperial council, Saugerties; from Ellenville; Mrs. Ruth Scholefield, deputy of Vanderlyn council, Kingston, Highland. They were escorted by the conductors, Mrs. Irene Kurtz and Warden Grace Relyea, assisted by the flag-bearers and degree team.

Those reported ill were Mrs. Sarah LeRoy, Mrs. Ella Tubbs, Mrs. Emily Brundage, Mrs. Fannie Heaton, Mrs. Emma Matthews was reported at the home of Mrs. William Waterbury after her return from the hospital. Sympathy was extended to Mrs. Phoebe Hopper and Mrs. Jennie Harcourt, both charter members, on the death of their husbands. Members were requested to send cards to all these members.

The first nomination of officers was held with Mrs. Charlotte Salomon as councilor. Mrs. Mabel Lent, a charter member, in behalf of Mrs. Mamie Wood presented an altar flag to Ida McKinley council in memory of her mother, Mrs. Emily Davis, who was a charter member.

Speakers included: District Deputy Mrs. Burgher, Deputy Mrs. Minkler, Associate State Councilor Mrs. Gerhardt, Past State Councilor Mrs. Decker, Deputies Swibold, Odell, Scholefield and the charter members. Mr. and Mrs. Harry Cotant, who celebrated their silver wedding anniversary were escorted to the altar, greeted by the councilor and presented with a large wedding cake decorated with white roses and a bride and groom by Mrs. Charlotte Salomon, vice councilor, in behalf of the council.

Group singing was enjoyed following the meeting including, "A Bicycle Built for Two" in honor of Mrs. Daisy Kurtz, the first councilor. Mrs. Irene Kurtz was pianist for the drill, and distributed the gifts to the charter members. Mrs. Gwendolyn Callahan substituted as flagbearer during the receiving of the honored guests. For the closing thought of the day, Councilor Mrs. Cecile Petersen read an original poem, "War Fodder," by Mrs. Irene Kurtz.

Refreshment committee for the meeting November 20, Mrs. Nettie Osterhoudt, Mrs. Lavinia Merte, Mrs. Grace Muller, Mrs. Hazel Palmer, Miss Emma Paltridge, Mrs. Florence Perkins. The wedding cake was served with the howl lunch. Guests included: 22 members of Vanderlyn council, Kingston; 17 from Imperial council, Saugerties; four from Ellenville; three from Olympia council, Middletown; four from Newburgh; over 40 from Ida McKinley council.

Village Notes
Highland, Nov. 11 — Mrs. Olof Sundstrom conducted the program on the educational fund and Cottage College at the meeting of Chapter A, P. E. O. Sisterhood, Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Joseph Freston, who was assisted by Mrs. D. S. Haynes. The members decided to hold the next meeting on Tuesday, November 26 at the home of Mrs. LeGrand Haviland. Preparation is being made for the annual visit of the organizer. Attending the meeting were: Mrs. Sundstrom, Mrs. Franklin Welker, Mrs. John Batten, Mrs. C. W. Rathgeb, Mrs. Myron Hazen, Mrs. Mabel Hasbrouck, Mrs. Leah Dunlop, Mrs. A. W. Lent, Mrs. LeGrand Haviland, Miss Laura Harcourt, Miss Emily Lent, Mrs. A. Jerome Pratt, Mrs. DeWitt DuBois, the president, Mrs. Irving Rathgeb, and the hostesses, Mrs. Freston and Mrs. Haynes.

Dr. Roy Rathgeb, who is connected with a hospital in Texarkana, Ark., has been commissioned lieutenant in a hospital unit of the Texas National Guard. Dr. Rathgeb is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Irving Rathgeb of Tillson avenue and joined the hospital staff there last spring.

Lester Van Nostrand of San Francisco, Cal., enroute to Springfield, Mass., visited his sister, Miss Ada Van Nostrand, recently. Mrs. LeGrand Haviland was hostess to the Friday afternoon bridge club last week.

Kingston Townsend Club To Meet Wednesday Night

Kingston Townsend Club No. 1 will hold its regular semi-monthly meeting Wednesday evening at Mechanics' Hall. This promises to be one of the most stirring meetings of the club this year. In addition to some important business and preparation for the annual election of officers, Dr. Carr Miller, president of the club, will have an important announcement to make to the club.

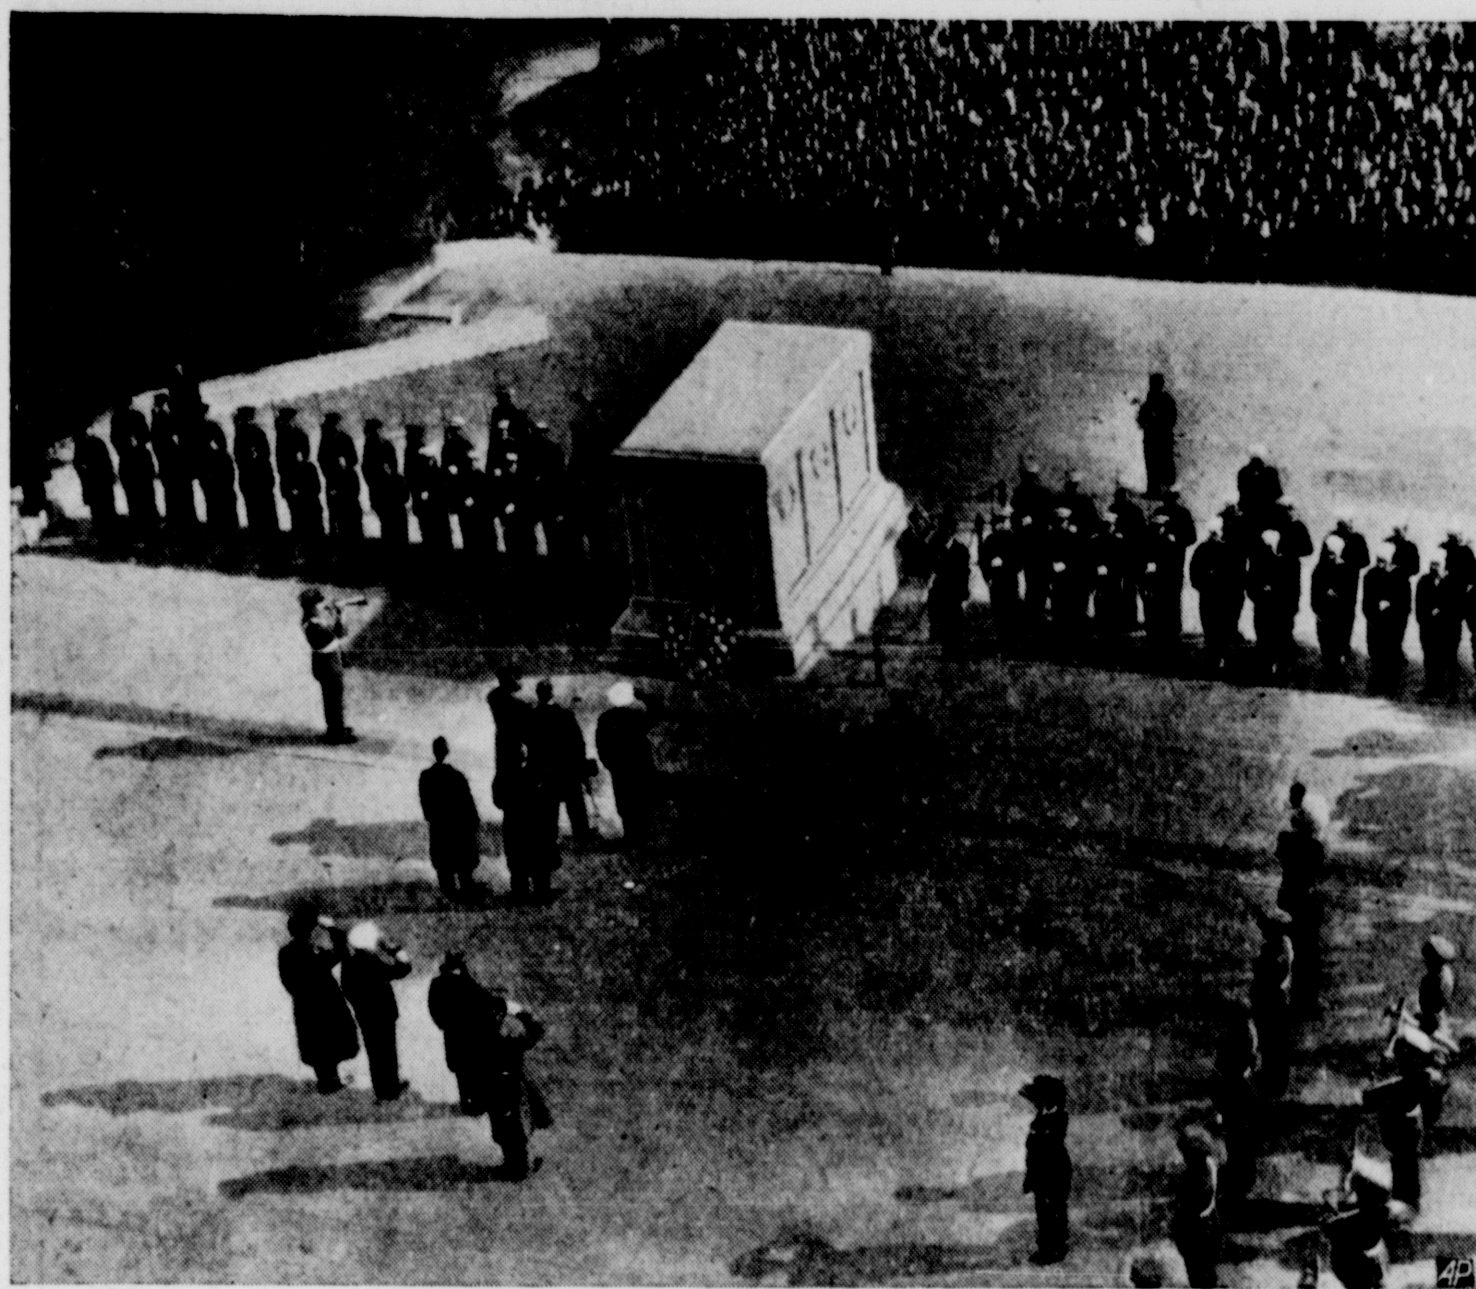

The subject for general discussion at the meeting will be "Why Mr. Mutari was defeated for Congress in the recent election." Some surprising political facts will be presented in this discussion by members of the club. Mr. Mutari is expected to be present and speak, also.

The outlook for the passage of the Townsend bill in Congress during next year appears encouraging to Kingston Townsends. A full attendance of club members is desired. The public is also invited.

Morgan Social Meets
The Morgan Social Club will hold an important meeting this evening at Morgan's Restaurant on Cornell street. An election of officers will take place. All members of the organization are requested to attend.

Some of the pursuit planes and bombers developed in this nation in the last 18 months will be among the most heavily armed, if not the most heavily armed in the world.

PRESIDENT LEADS NATION IN TRIBUTE TO DEAD OF WORLD WAR

President Roosevelt, journeying from the national capital to the Virginia side of the Potomac, led the American people in annual tribute to the dead of the World War when his aide placed a wreath on the tomb of the unknown soldier in Arlington Cemetery. This general view of the ceremony was made as the presidential party, surrounded by an honor guard, stood before the tomb. The president also delivered an Armistic Day message over the radio.

Italian Offensive Shows Duce's Troops Attacking In Half-Hearted Manner

Present Failure May Mark Last Time That Duce's Troops Go to War Alone

(This daily feature, conducted by DeWitt Mackenzie, is being written by Fred Vanderschmidt while Mackenzie is taking a brief vacation.)

The Italian reverse in the Greek adventure—(the Greeks call it a rout)—permits speculation on these interesting possibilities:

It may be the last time Mussolini's troops march alone, and it may be the end of his dream of a Mediterranean hegemony all of his own.

It gives the British a superb opportunity to strike hard at the Italians in East Africa and free the Suez from the Italian threat.

It is hard to escape the surmise that Italy invaded Greece under German promptings: As a feint to sew up the British fleet in the eastern Mediterranean, draw British Near-Eastern troops into Greece as the British were drawn into the unhappy Norwegian campaign and weaken the British so they could not withstand a twin Axis offensive on the Suez and Gibraltar.

Likewise, with all respect for the valiant Greek resistance, it seems more than likely that the Italians began their incursion into Greece 16 days ago with a singular lack of enthusiasm and preparation.

May Call for Help
Now that the Italians have stubbed their toes on the rocks of northern Greece and punctured their mid-ribs on the bayonet points of the Greek mountain infantry, they may have to call for German help.

This can come in two ways, and in neither will the consequences be happy, in the long run, for Italy. German troops can descend through Bulgaria (which isn't in a position to object) into eastern Greece. This depends on Russia, and it is quite likely that the Germans are talking to M. Molotov about it in Berlin today. If Germany goes through Bulgaria, she needs assurances of Russian neutrality and she needs Russian help to keep Turkey neutral. Germany wants no fight with Turkey just now, much less one with Russia.

If the risk of this route is too great, the Germans may pour through Italy and the Adriatic to Albania and Greece (the route through Yugoslavia probably would present difficulties of terrain).

If that happens, it may be permissible to wonder how the people of Italy would like the spectacle of a German march-through. It's not likely their enthusiasm would exceed the dead-pan greeting which the people of Berlin extended today to M. Molotov, premier of a government which they once were told was the arch-foe of everything German.

In any event, there the German troops would be, either in Italy's front parlor or her watery front yard, and they wouldn't be leaving soon. Whatever Mediterranean campaigns were fought by the Axis from that time on, the Ger-

Hitler Has Little Aid

So far in this war Hitler has had little active military help from either the Italian army or the Italian fleet. The time is likely to come when he will insist on expending both, and doing it his own way.

The British have shrewdly avoided rushing blindly into Greece and weakening their greater Mediterranean position. They are frank about it. Winston Churchill has promised, "we will do our best" to help the Greeks, by air and sea from a new base on the Greek island of Crete. But he has asked everyone to remember "the very serious preoccupations that dominate us both at home and in the middle east."

The Italians have a vast army spilling over from Libya into the western edges of the Egyptian desert. That army, after an initial advance of less than a hundred miles several weeks ago, has stood more or less stock still. The best guess is that it has been waiting for something like the Greek distraction to render the British vulnerable before striking. Suezward in earnest, perhaps at the same moment that German troops tramped through Spain toward Gibraltar.

British Are Not Fooled
But the British have not been duped. They have poured reinforcements steadily into Egypt. Yesterday, as War Secretary Anthony Eden wound up an inspection tour in the middle-east, a high British source said the desert armies of the empire would strike, and strike hard, at the earliest possible moment.

The British can ill afford to do otherwise. To permit the Axis to take the offensive at both ends of the Mediterranean is to risk not only the loss of a line of empire but the bottling-up of a great army and a great fleet in an overwhelming military disaster, and one that might well force the British to their knees.

Should the British strike hard and well at Libya, it may not be too much to expect that the French army of North Africa will rise from the immobility into which it has been forced by the fall of France and loyalty to Vichy—and help against the Italians.

Already, there are rumors that General Maxime Weygand, back now in command in French North Africa, is straining at his bonds.

To Hold Dance
The first of the social functions to be held by the Eichler Social Club, during the coming winter season, will take place on Thanksgiving Eve, Wednesday, November 20, when the club will sponsor a dinner and dance beginning at 7 o'clock. Tickets may be procured at the Eichler Hotel not later than Sunday, November 17, when all returns must be in.

Discontinues Business
Mrs. Minnie Tetelman, who conducted a business at 616 Broadway for 16 years, has discontinued her interests in the store and is recuperating from an illness in New York city.

To Hold Card Party
Atharhaeton Rebekah Lodge will hold a card party at 8:30 p. m., following its regular meeting at 7:30 o'clock Thursday, November 14, at Mechanics' Hall on Henry street. The public is invited.

New Paltz Draft Board Requested To Send Six Men

Draft Board No. 316 with headquarters at New Paltz, and with jurisdiction in the towns of Gardiner, Lloyd, Marlborough, New Paltz, Plattekill, Esopus and Shawangunk, received its first request on Saturday for a quota of six men to be sent to the Bronx induction district in New York city, where they will be received for selective service training. The six men selected are to report in New York city on November 26.

Questionnaires have been mailed to registrants in this district whose order numbers are 1 to 100 inclusive, and 50 additional questionnaires have been mailed.

The selective service regulations provide mailing a questionnaire (Form 40) by the local board to the registrant is notice that the process of "classification and selection" with regard to that registrant has begun. Each day the local board will post at its office a notice of the order numbers of the registrants to whom questionnaires have been mailed that day.

This local board keeps in its office a classification record (Form 100). On this classification record will be entered the date each action is taken by this board or the board of appeal concerning each registrant. The entry of this date in the classification is notice of the action taken. Other notice will be mailed to each registrant at his address last known by the local board, and to any other person who files a claim for him.

Either the mailing of a notice or the entry in the classification record of the date the notice was mailed shall constitute notice to the registrant and all concerned. This is true whether or not the mailed notice is actually received by the person to whom it is addressed.

Any person required by law to register, or any registrant, who fails to perform a duty required by the Selective Training and Service Act of 1940, within the time provided by the law (generally 5 days), has violated the law. A person violating the law is subject to trial in the United States district court, which may impose a fine or imprisonment, or both.

The date when action was taken by the local board will be written in the classification record in each of the following instances:

Whenever a duty is to be performed by a registrant.

Whenever a period of time begins to run within which a registrant is to perform a duty.

Whenever a period of time begins to run within which a registrant may claim a privilege.

All registrants and other persons concerned should examine from time to time the notices posted by the local board and the classification record.

The classification record is open to inspection by the public during the board's business hours.

Cornell Hose Meeting

Regular meeting of Cornell Hose Co. will be held this evening at 8 o'clock. All members are requested to be present.

Flashes of Life

Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press)
Needs an Aspirin
Roanoke, Va. — Persons corresponding with Dr. Josef Nordenhaug, a Baptist pastor of Vinton, Va., have a tough time with his name.

His collection of envelopes shows these: Wordenkantz, Nordenhaug, Nordenhog, Nordenham, Nordengag, Hasdenhaug, Naidenburg, Hordenhour, Vandenbaug, and—Needahug.

Sleeps Well Now

Ogdensburg, N. Y. — Wilbur Wells lost a lot of sleep for three nights, then complained to his wife a "hard lump" in his pillow was the cause of it all.

The "lump," Mrs. Wells discovered, was $94 in bills placed there by her mother 38 years ago.

Hot Seat

Tremonton, Utah — John Laub found two sticks of dynamite rolling loose among iron tools under the seat of his truck. He decided they must have slipped under the seat while he was hauling a load of explosives—30 days ago.

Lucky Accident

Los Angeles—James H. Newton and bride just bumped into the minister who married them. They dented his automobile fender, then left Newton's daughter-in-law to discuss the settlement while they went for a license.

When they returned the traffic victim was introduced as Rev. W. L. Deboard.

"What's a dented fender at a time like this?" he asked, invited them into his sedan and married them.

Joke's on Jokester

Lincoln, Neb. — A mischievous youngster, phoned a radio station, introduced himself as the superintendent of schools and asked that it be announced that because of the cold weather "there will be no school today."

The announcement was made, followed by a flood of inquiries and finally a denial from school authorities.

But he had little to gain. It was Armistice Day and schools were to be dismissed at noon anyway.

Bold Burglar

Oconto, Wis.—District Attorney Harold W. Krueger is waiting for the chance to prosecute this one. Burglars cracked his office safe and escaped with $219.

DEATHS LAST NIGHT

Just Plain Guts

By NORMAN CHANDLER
Chairman, Newspaper Publishers Committee

THIS earth is crowded with cowards. And if you'll pardon the inelegance of the headline above, I would like to say that, to my way of thinking, "guts" is the thing which distinguishes a hundred million or so of us in America from the rest of the world.

I know we have courage. We are sothearted to a fault. We are emotional and easily excited. We make our share of foolish mistakes. But way down underneath all these surface faults is something we call the "pioneer spirit." It is the heritage of a young country.

Those of us whose ancestors came over on the Mayflower and those who came as refugees only last week will know what I mean. In our very blood is the belief that tomorrow can be brighter than today.

Furthermore, in our hearts there is the resolve to make tomorrow brighter. That is where the courage comes in.

Did you ever think how much courage it takes to let another man speak his mind? His ideas may sound wrong to you; his proposals and his actions may make you angry or resentful. But the sheer courage to say "speak—speak freely, and go in peace" is a brand of bravery that no dictator can boast. Only a citizen in a democracy can "take it straight."

You see, it is by hearing all sides, by seeing all that is proposed that you and I are able to go on living in a democracy, governing ourselves, enjoying the fruits of our own labor, making progress.

No sword-rattling head of a totalitarian state dares to let his subjects face the truth, know the facts. And so, by muzzling the press, by letting the public hear only what he thinks is good for it to know, he keeps his power.

Here, in America, we demand the right to know the worst. We still have the guts to face the bitter along with the sweet. For example, when we discover, through the news, that we are poorly armed, badly prepared, unready to defend ourselves, we face that problem and set about to correct the weakness. And any other problems can safely be brought to light in the newspapers of America.

That is part of what makes this country great—a sense of responsibility which every citizen shares because he knows.

And if you really want a fight on your hands, just try to deprive these citizens of their right to all the news. The publishers won't have to lead the charge. There'll be a hundred million with their war clubs out. That hundred million knows why it is in America.

It's here because, for three centuries, men and women with the courage to face the duties of free men have been coming to this land where the humblest citizen sits in the councils with the proudest.

The right to have the kind of news you get in your papers is your right. The obligation to go on bringing it to you is the obligation of the newspaper publishers—an obligation you are not likely to let us forget.

NOTE: The purpose of these regular Tuesday institutional advertisements is to make American life and American business better. Your suggestions, criticisms or reactions will be appreciated by the Newspaper Publishers Committee and its chairman. Address the committee in care of the Business Office of this paper.

NATIONAL POWER

We have heard a good deal from dictators about what they call the "mongrel" character of our nation. They boast of the homogeneity of their own population.

They boast also of the racial unity of mind and spirit among their people. And it may be admitted that there is something in that, too.

But when you come to study the origins of those races, you find that apparently all that have amounted to much in the world were formed originally by a fusion of races, and those which have retained their vigor and progressiveness have also had new recruits from time to time. Races left to themselves have grown decadent, physically and mentally.

It is probably no accident that the nation now developing here in America, fusing in our melting pot, is so vigorous, alert and varied in character and talent.

We are still a little awkward in many ways, because so much of our population gained in recent decades is not yet fully digested. From now on, the process of unification will be more rapid, as we reserve America more definitely for the Americans now here.

ACCEPTING VERDICTS

Senator Henry F. Ashurst, himself a political "lame duck," has provided classic consolation for all such victims of fate.

"It is the undoubted right of the people," he told the Senate a few weeks ago, "to change their servants, and to remove one and replace him with another at any time they choose, for a good reason, for a bad reason, or for no reason at all. If we are to remain a free people, it is the duty of public servants not grumpily and sourly to accept the verdict of the majority, but joyously to accept the verdict."

"A great many people unwisely imagine that the beauty and serenity of life inhere in office. No, royalty and honor do not necessarily inhere in cabinets, congresses and courts. Honor resides in the man."

Alexander Pope in his "Essay on Man" boiled it down to two lines: "Honor and shame for no condition rise; act well thy part—there all the honor lies."

Still it's tough to be voted down and turned out and have to return to a private job—or the search for one. Lame ducks should be regarded not with malice or disdain but with understanding sympathy.

WALKING OFF WORRY

Dr. W. H. Thompson, head of the philosophy and psychology department of the University of Omaha, prescribed a remedy for post-election headaches which would be equally good for some of the other things that ail us. It was a simple prescription—a ten-mile walk, not too vigorous.

Fear and worry, he explained, over-stimulate the activity of the frontal lobes of the brain and headache follows. "Mild, continued exercise such as walking to the point of real fatigue, tends to lessen the severity of the images the fears called up."

Such exercise, for the same reason, is a good antidote to a feeling of frustration or depression.

Walking always was good exercise, whether recommended by doctor or philosopher or athletic coach. It almost became a lost form of activity a while back, but is reviving now, for all sorts of reasons. Motorists find it a pleasant change from so much riding, a fact which suggests that Americans are not going to lose their feet, after all, from disuse.

SHIFTING AIR POWER

There was a big "kick" in an announcement from London the other day that Britain would have air superiority in six months. It has been evident that she was steadily gaining power, through a smoothly working combination of American industry and British skill in the use of our war products, but few of us realized the rapidity of this progress.

The average American has probably not expected much more than effective self-defense on Britain's part for another year or two. Yet the British air force, whether large or small, has not only proved its power to defend the British Isles, but is now ranging far abroad to help friends and carry terror to enemies of England.

It is a heartening thing for Britain and America and for all the democracies temporarily out of commission. We cannot say yet that the dictatorships which have sought to dominate the world are actually on the run, but they are slowed down, visibly losing their momentum and confidence. The turn of the tide may be nearer than we think.

DEADLY WAR—DEADLY PEACE

We are all horrified, as we should be, by the slaughter in England from invaders' bombs. But in the first nine months of this year the American death toll from automobile accidents alone is said to have been 23,830. And motor injuries short of death ran into hundreds of thousands.

The British people can't help all that slaughter and mutilation in London and other English cities. But we could help most of our motor killings and maimings, merely by being a little more careful of this precious gift of life—for ourselves and others.

Whenever we take a good, honest look around the world, we come back to the shameful conclusion that we Americans haven't any troubles.

It takes the English for understatement. Some Londoners privately confess that they don't really like sleeping in cellars and subways.

Why not send an expedition into that Greek-Italian war zone, to find out whether there's really a war there, or it's just another epic poem?

"Humor is always absolute truth," says an expert. Maybe so. For instance, Will Rogers used to call this "Cuckoo Land."

It must be dreadful to be a king or queen, chased around from one country to another the way they are now.

"Italians Hit by Own Fire, Greeks Say." First time we ever heard of boomerang bullets.

ALL DRUGS OR EXTRACTS NOT TAKEN ORALLY

Some may find it hard to understand why so many remedies such as drugs and extracts have to be injected into the skin or into a vein, while other drugs taken by mouth are quite effective.

There may be some who think that physicians advise the hypodermic use of drugs or extracts so that the patient will have to come to the physician's office or the physician visit the patient. What these individuals forget is that once the effect of a certain dose of a drug or extract is known to the physician, he is quite willing to allow the patient to use the hypodermic needle himself. For instance, there is hardly one case of diabetes in a hundred who does not give himself injections of insulin one to three times a day.

A number of articles have appeared in the medical journals about the use of pollen extract for hay fever taken by mouth instead of by injection. While here and there a physician reports some success, the great bulk of evidence, keeping in mind the amount of pollen in the air each year, shows that injected pollen by mouth is far from being as effective as my hypodermic injection.

For the past few years, investigators have been trying to produce an insulin that can be taken by mouth, thus doing away with injections. Among these investigators is Dr. J. C. Collip, McGill University, who had much to do with getting insulin into a safe condition for human use. From reports to hand, the use of insulin by mouth may be available at some future time.

For those who cannot or will not undergo the hypodermic method of taking insulin, Dr. B. Brabin, in The Lancet, London, outlines a method of getting insulin into the blood by placing suppositories containing insulin into the rectum or lower end of the large intestine. Tests were carried out on 150 rabbits and on 150 healthy human beings. The action of the insulin sets in soon after the suppositories are placed in the rectum and reaches its full power or strength after thirty or forty minutes, at the end of which time the power of its action drops rapidly. The insulin does not increase the intensity of the reaction and also prolong it.

The insulin does not have to pass through the digestive juices by this method. It is because the digestive juices destroy or lessen the effects that some drugs must be taken by injection.

"AT CENTURY'S TURN"

By H. L. VAN DEUSEN

Kingston's Chamber of Commerce was an active organization in 1914, and at the annual meeting held on January 6, of that year, Sam Bernstein, widely known Wall street clothier, was re-elected president for the third term. John B. Kearney and L. F. Bannon were re-elected vice presidents, and Robert E. Leighton was elected treasurer.

The executive secretary of the organization was William F. Hoehn. Mr. Hoehn had come to Kingston originally as secretary of the local Y. M. C. A., and he held that position for several years, resigning to become secretary of the Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Hoehn, it will be recalled, served the local chamber for several years, resigning to accept a similar position elsewhere.

The Chamber of Commerce continued to function in Kingston until the days of the World War when it gradually died a natural death. No efforts were made to revive it, but the need of such an organization was realized by the business men of the city and led to the organization of the Kingston Industrial Committee.

One of the reasons for the death of the Chamber of Commerce was the formation of three business groups in the uptown, central and downtown sections of the city, which have been active for some years in promoting the interests of the city.

With the public works board of the city getting the snow removal equipment ready for action the coming winter it is interesting to note that one of the worst blizzards, since the famous one of 1888, began falling in Kingston on Friday afternoon, February 13, 1914, and tied up all traffic in the city.

Like the '88 blizzard this one of 1914 began gently and gave no indication of the severity that was to follow. During the night the storm increased in violence and when householders awoke Saturday morning it was to find the city buried under snow a foot deep, which in many places had drifted to a height of four to five feet.

Trolley cars were stalled and taxicabs were held fast in drifts all over the city. Practically the only means of getting about was to wade through the deep snow.

Many of the factories were forced to close down as employees were unable to report for work and the stores worked short-handed all day, but there was but little business transacted.

The storm finally ceased early Saturday afternoon and the city forces began to dig out from under the blizzard.

Those who owned horses and light sleighs enjoyed the blizzard and were able to get about, but automobiles—which were much fewer in number than they are today—were laid up until the streets had been plowed open.

Annual Roll Call

November 11-30

Washington Daybook

By Jack Stinnett

Washington—When you are shivering in your boots at the first real cold snap of winter, give a thought to the "Polar Bear" squadron and the boys of the army air corps who will be flying planes during the frigid months at Uncle Sam's first Arctic experimental air field at Fairbanks, Alaska.

Maj. Dale Gaffney, commander at Ladd Field, just out of Fairbanks, was in town recently to report to air corps headquarters, and already is winging his way back to his post in the flicker of the northern lights.

What the Major had to report: Ladd Field will start the winter with 14 officers and 200 men (to be increased to 30 officers and 300 men by spring) and with five planes (also to be increased in number). Although adequate accommodations are up for the men, there wasn't time to build hangars, and the planes will go through the winter lashed to the snow when not in use.

Since temperatures of 60 degrees below zero are not uncommon at Fairbanks, this business of lethering planes in the open presented the Major and his men with one of their first problems. They think they have that solved. Over the motors of the planes will be placed great padded canvas heaters which will keep the planes ready for instant use even in severe weather.

Although skis or runners for small planes have been in use for years, Ladd Field for the first time will try out ski landing gear on the great four-motored B-17 bombers, of which the post has two.

Major Gaffney, a husky fellow with a big grin, has flown more than 8,000 hours in his 24 years in aviation. He has lost no time in putting his command to work. Already flights have been made to Point Barrow, that polar-most tip of Alaska far inside the Arctic circle. And when the order came through to ferry the bombers up from McChord Field, Wash. Capt. Richard Freeman, as flight commander, did it in eight hours, the first non-stop flight ever to have been made from McChord over the perilous peaks and rutted gorges to Fairbanks.

The Major, however, insists there's nothing romantic about the Polar Bear squadron's assignment this winter.

"It's just hard work," he says. "And there's nothing romantic about hard work at 40 degrees below."

The experiments will include assembling all data possible on the effects of cold on motors, carburetors and wing surfaces (temperatures at Ladd Field average under zero 116 days out of the year) and also reactions of the men to prolonged assignment at posts in the land of the midnight sun.

The "Polar Bear squadron" gets its name from the insignia on the planes, a polar bear standing upright on an iceberg with an air bomb in its upraised paw. The northern lights provide the background.

To Have Eskimo Clothes

An interesting phase of the army's winter activities in Alaska is that Brig.-Gen. Simon Bolivar Buckner, in charge of all armed forces in the territory, has set the Eskimos to making Arctic "uniforms" for the entire force.

After an investigation of the clothing situation, General Buckner concluded that hooded "parkas" and fur-lined "mukluks" (moccasins) would be the best protection for the men against the extremes of cold prevalent in the Alaskan interior. These garments are made only by the Eskimos.

Letter Shows Working of New Deal Law as Regards Late Campaign—and Effect of Law on Civil Liberties

By DAVID LAWRENCE

(Copyright, 1940)

Washington, Nov. 12.—National unity has become a watchword, but alongside of it must arise another phrase for national attention—fair play. It is essential that the American people who have been told they have a democracy be informed of some of those things that happened during the campaign which were not protected by the law of the land.

If you were to say that a certain New Deal actually prevented a group of citizens from speaking in the last campaign, you would be indignantly challenged. But there is such a statute and such a group which was not only silenced during the last campaign, but forbidden by law, as interpreted by the New Deal, to utter a single word in defense of its position.

This correspondent presents a letter today, the text of which should give pause to every American who says he favors civil liberty. On reading it some citizens will say there ought to be a law forbidding the dissemination of such a letter. This is the wrong approach. The authors of that letter had a constitutional right to write it and distribute it, and the remedy does not lie in further restriction, but in removing restrictions placed upon the other persons whose position is misrepresented in the letter.

Let every one who reads the document try to figure out how an employer could possibly answer the misrepresentations therein without violating the Wagner labor relations law as at present interpreted by the National Labor Relations Board. The letter, dated October 30, 1940, reads as follows:

"International Union United Automobile Workers of America affiliated with CIO, Local No. 490, Address: 11812 Oakland Ave., Detroit, Mich. William Jenkins, president.

"Dear member:
 "As you know, on November 15 our representatives are going to sit around the conference table with the representatives of the Chrysler Corporation to discuss some very necessary amendments and changes to our present contract."

"We are all vitally interested in the outcome of these discussions, wondering if we will get the improvements we have been hoping for so long. We have been talking vacations with pay and other changes that would look mighty nice in the contract under which we must work for the next year.
 "We are sending in our negotiators to do all in their power to get these things for us, and the extent of their success will depend on the kind of support they will get from us."

"On Nov. 5 we will be casting our ballots for the election of president of our country for the next 4 years. This election is of great importance to our negotiators, as they know the outcome of the election will have a tremendous bearing on the attitude of the corporation towards the union. They know if Mr. Willkie, the hand-picked candidate of the Chamber of Commerce and utilities' trusts is elected, the union has lost a great friend, and the Chrysler Corporation will stiffen its resistance toward any further advances of the union.
 "On the other hand, if President Roosevelt is reelected, it will encourage our negotiators and weaken the resistance of the corporation."

HUDSON RIVER STEAMBOATS

These articles are written from the collection of George W. Murdock, veteran marine engineer.

No. 168—Walter B. Crane

A steamboat more familiar to the followers of the Hudson river in this vicinity was the sidewheeler "Walter B. Crane," which was in service out of the Rondout creek for many years.

The wooden hull of the "Walter B. Crane" was constructed at Hoboken, New Jersey, in 1853. Her hull was 88 feet long, breadth of beam was 20 feet, depth of hold five feet. The "Walter B. Crane" had a gross tonnage of 72 and a net tonnage of 44, and she was powered with a vertical beam engine with a cylinder diameter of 34 inches with a 10-foot stroke.

The "Walter B. Crane" was a small sidewheeler steamboat built for towing purposes in and around New York harbor. At the time of her construction there were few propeller tugboats in existence (then known as "kickers"), and most of the towing was done by the small "sidewheelers."

In 1858 or 1859 the "Walter B. Crane" was purchased by Captain Peter DuBois of Rondout who brought the vessel from the harbor of New York to the Rondout creek to begin her term of service in this territory. During this period in the history of Rondout many sailing vessels arrived daily at the mouth of the creek. Here they dropped anchor to await a towboat which would haul them up the creek to the coal docks of the Delaware & Hudson Canal Company where they would be loaded with coal, hauled back to the mouth of the creek, and then sail up or down the Hudson river with their cargoes of anthracite.

It was in this service that the "Walter B. Crane" became a familiar figure in the marine life of Rondout.

The community of Wilbur was also a thriving locality at this same time due to the location of the bluestone docks there; and sloops were towed to the Wilbur docks to load this bluestone for shipment to New York. Towboats were kept busy in this particular service—and the "Walter B. Crane" hauled many a sloop laden with bluestone.

The year 1864 marked the construction of a propeller tugboat named the "John Dillon" for Captain Peter DuBois, and then the "Walter B. Crane" was sold to Major Thomas Cornell and added to the Cornell Steamboat Company's towing fleet. For the following 10 years the "Walter B. Crane" was used as a helper vessel for the larger tugboats of the Cornell fleet, being under the command of Captain Stephen Van Wart until 1874.

Captain Abram Allen became commander of the "Walter B. Crane" in 1874, with David B. Eighmey as chief engineer. The towboat was then used in towing brick barges from the shallow waters of the Hudson river near the brickyards to the docks at Rondout, and also towed cement barges from the mouth of the Delaware & Hudson Canal at Eddyville to Rondout where they were made up for the Hudson river.

Curing the last days of service of the "Walter B. Crane" she was under the command of Captain James DuBois with Parker Colman as chief engineer. In the fall of 1884, after 31 years of service, the "Walter B. Crane" was laid up at Port Ewen—never to run again. She slowly rotted to pieces and finally sank. Her engine was salvaged but her boiler was left in the old hull resting in the shallow waters off Port Ewen, and remains of the once-trim towboat "Walter B. Crane" are still visible.

Supreme Court Rules Labor Board Could Not Give Order

board order directing the corporation to reinstate 5,000 or more employees who participated in the 1937 "little steel" strike. The supreme court previously has refused to review the reinstatement order.

The board's relief order had been upheld by the Third Federal Circuit Court.

The labor board said it regarded the work relief funds received by the men while away from their regular employment as "a sort of windfall" which neither the corporation nor the employees should be allowed to retain.

It added that the order could be viewed as directing the corporation to reimburse the employees for back pay lost but that the employees should reimburse the government "for interim support."

"In this view," the board said, "it is but a bookkeeping convenience for the corporation to pay the government directly."

Important pending cases which involved federal regulation, of hydroelectric projects and freedom of the press were not passed on today.

Board to Report

At 7 o'clock this evening the county board of canvassers will make its report on the vote cast at the general election. At 7:30 o'clock the annual session of the board of supervisors will get underway.

Developed in American factories since the period of war flames high are no less than 20 new military types—bombers, pursuit interceptors, and trainers for the Army Air Corps; shipboard fighters, scouts, dive bombers and patrol bombers for the Navy.

stairs assembly hall. None was injured.

Repair crews worked to restore communication facilities in Nebraska and neighboring states. The Nebraska state agricultural officials reported that one-fourth of the turkey crop was frozen lost. Thousands of the birds froze to death.

Strong winds churned the Great Lakes, sending shipping scurrying for shelter and driving a car-ferry aground near Ludington, Mich. Ludington was without telephone service for several hours, and many power lines were down. The Port Huron lighthouse was blown far from its anchorage in Lake Erie.

There were eight storm deaths in Illinois, which suffered extensive property damage in both urban and rural sections. An electric sign at Randolph street and the outer drive in Chicago was blown down although built to resist a wind of 100 miles. The steel sign was 10 stories high and valued by its owners at $150,000.

Windows of many fashionable shops along Michigan avenue in Chicago were shattered. The three-ton belfry tower of the Olivet Baptist Church crashed to the ground as did a seven-foot statue of Christ from atop the five-story Columbus Hospital. Cornices were hurled to the ground in many sections of the city.

More than 50 injury cases were reported to Chicago police. Many persons were cut by falling glass and loose bricks. A three-foot thick tree snapped in the gale and killed a woman pedestrian. In suburban Evanston a towering flagpole was bent into a right angle by the wind.

The storm halted air traffic in the Midwest and was believed to have cost the lives of three U. S. Army flyers. The army plane disappeared while on a training flight from St. Paul to Omaha and was believed to have plunged into Spirit Lake, in Iowa.

A 357 foot transmitter tower of radio station WIND at Gary, Ind., snapped in midsection. A Gary pedestrian was picked up by the wind and blown through the plate glass window of a women's apparel shop.

In Hammond, Ind., Robert Siemering was imprisoned for an hour in the refrigerator compartment of his ice cream truck when the wind slammed the door shut. He was removed unconscious and half frozen.

Snowdrifts measured three feet in the western Colorado mountain ranges. The cold weather was blamed for an auto death in Colorado and another in Wyoming. Two Iowa motorists were killed in an accident caused by slippery highways.

A. J. Knarr, forecaster at the Chicago weather bureau, said the violent storm resulted from the meeting of cold air, rushing southward from Canada, with a mass of warm, moist tropical air moving up the Mississippi valley.

Cold Weather Predicted

Buffalo, N. Y., Nov. 12 (AP)—Snow flurries and sub-freezing temperatures were predicted for upstate New York in the wake of a gale that swept the area last night and early today, leaving a trail of minor damage.

Halley's comet, most famous among those visible to the naked eye, was last seen in 1910 and will not be seen again until 1985.

Three Blasts Take 11 to 21 Lives

eight. Each treated a number of others.

Preliminary estimates of the deaths varied from six to 25, but Police Captain John Egan of Woodbridge township, in which the plant was situated, expressed belief that no more than 20 persons were employed there. It manufactured railway track torpedoes, flares and similar equipment.

(In Washington army and navy officials said a preliminary check of their records of defense orders did not show that any contracts had been awarded to the company.)

One Building Remains

Police said there were 15 buildings at the plant, but only half a one remained standing after the blast.

Those destroyed varied in size from one 100 by 200 feet to mere sheds.

Also demolished was the nearby repair shop of the Middlesex Water Company.

Persons in their homes nearby and on the street were hurt. Nearly all windows were shattered within a quarter-mile and many were broken in Bayonne, 11 miles away.

The plant is about 15 miles south of Newark and a similar distance from Manhattan.

Buildings shook in much of central and northern New Jersey and throughout Staten Island, N. Y., which is just across a sound from Woodbridge.

John Costello, undertaker, said the first five found dead were horribly mutilated. He expressed belief one was that of a woman. Some were decapitated; others lost legs.

Blocks in the vicinity of the blast felt the extent of the blast which swamped police and newspaper offices with telephone calls in nearly every municipality in the metropolitan area.

The 100-by-200 foot main plant of the corporation, located about 15 miles from downtown Manhattan, N. Y., and the same distance from Newark, was completely wrecked, Lakis said.

Perth Amboy General Hospital reported between 10 and 20 persons had been brought in for treatment and Rahway Hospital said "quite a number" were rushed there and "they are in pretty bad shape."

Felt in Staten Island

The blast was felt in Staten Island and Bayonne, N. J. John Smith, a resident of Stapleton, Staten Island, across the Estuary from the Jersey shore, said his home was jarred, awakening sleepers in the house.

"I was writing at a desk when the explosion shook the house and rattled the windows," Smith said. "The whole north end of the island seemed to quiver. It struck about 8:30 a. m."

New York city police offered to send ambulances but were assured that no outside help was needed as yet.

"Further assistance will be requested if needed," the Newark police informed New York headquarters.

Police in Bayonne, 11 miles distant from the plant, reported several hundred telephone calls and said numerous windows were broken.

At 9:45 a. m., the Newark state police said there were sufficient ambulances and physicians on the scene.

Superintendent Mark O. Kimberling, of the state police, said at Trenton reports from troopers at the scene indicated there were about 20 dead.

The company, situated on Woodbridge General Hospital, between the community and Port Reading, manufactures railroad track torpedoes, flares and similar equipment.

Kimberling said it employed about 100 workers, mostly girls. He said he had no information whether the company had undertaken national defense orders.

Blast Not Visible

A heavy rainstorm and low flying clouds hid the blast from passengers on commercial airline planes which arrived in New York city shortly afterward.

"We didn't hear or see anything when we came across," said Captain W. R. Hostettler, who brought an Eastern Airline plane in from Atlanta a half hour after the explosion.

A 1,000-foot ceiling prevailed generally over the metropolitan area.

Police Chief Henry J. Harrington of adjacent Carteret said he had helped carry out five bodies. Rescue work was going on all around him, he said, and he knew there were other dead.

Estimates by rescue workers ranged anywhere from six to 25 dead.

Harrington reported there were at least 15 buildings, large and small, in the signal plant, but only half a building remained standing. This was at the edge of the grounds.

A shambles existed where the rest of the plant and the water company's repair shop had stood. Four automobiles and trucks, some of them standing in the street, were showered with debris, much of it lead pipe.

More Victims Sought

Two hours after the explosion firemen and rescue squads were still looking through the wreckage for possible victims.

Coroner J. J. Flynn of Middlesex county started an investigation.

Windows were blown in for a quarter of a mile in all directions. In a nearby grocery, show windows were smashed and goods sent spilling from the shelves.

Some 300 or 400 persons stood outside the demolished plant, calm and dry-eyed.

Other spectators were kept blocks away by police lines.

Five women employees of the plant were taken to the Perth Amboy General Hospital, several miles away, where they were reported in serious condition. Two were described as burned "critically."

The explosion, third serious one in New Jersey in the past two

Al Melville First to Volunteer

Albert Melville, who served with the Fifth U. S. Marines during the Nicaraguan Campaign, was the first to volunteer for a year's service with the United States armed forces through the local Selective Service Board. Samuel Stern, chairman of the local board, is shown congratulating Melville last evening when the two met at the American Legion Victory Ball. Melville, a member of the Legion Drum Corps, is well known throughout the Hudson Valley as an endurance and stunt swimmer. He represented Kingston at the New York World's Fair last summer as the guest of the Women World War Veterans of the United States, for whom he swam Flushing Bay with his hands cuffed behind his back. Melville will be sent to a U. S. Naval training station, Chairman Stern said.

Grandma's Memories to Be Subject of Offering

"Grandma's Pageant of Memories," the play to be given Friday night at 8:15 o'clock by children of School No. 6, and sponsored by the Parent-Teacher Association, is progressing rapidly in rehearsals. The cast is reported to be enthusiastic and indications are that a fine audience will be on hand to witness the performance.

The following children will take parts: Sharon Leaycraft, grandma; Alice Grant as grandma at seven; Beverly Auchmoody and Margaret Mary Hayes, grandchildren. Guests at the old-fashioned party: Tommy Knox, played by James Embree; Willie Everett, by Julian Cohen; Edgar Freese, music teacher. Other guests will be Shirley Swarthout, Joan Lantry, Joyce Auchmoody.

Many specialty acts will be given in the modern party, which makes up the second half. Guests will be Julian Howland, Joyce Papp, Jean Boss, Joyce Hoban, Lucy Miller, Dorothy Wilson, Arthur Souers, Robert Corpen, Gloria Ahlers, Dolores McGrane, Joan Mosher, Joan Sonne, Catharine McGrane, Eileen Hayes, Barbara Jones, Beth Jane Smith, Raymond Yager, Jean Bilyou, June Winchell, Doris Tucker, Harry Street, Elizabeth Spardie, Patsy Andretta, Stan Anderson, Donald Freese, James Embree, Jack Drees.

There will be songs, dances, recitations and piano solos. Proceeds will be for the welfare work of the school and a donation to the Red Cross.

Wrong Party

In Monday's Freeman it was stated that Edwin Dession of Creek Locks had purchased the LeFever property and had made recent improvements. Mrs. Emma Dession was the party who purchased the property and she has made the improvements and not her son.

Months, occurred about the time the day shift was coming in. State police at the Raritan township barracks said there was no estimate of how many were in the plant at the time.

responsibilities of Red Cross field workers in Army and Navy posts throughout the country are growing daily. The need for increasing the number of trainees in First Aid and for strengthening its other services has pointed to the significance of Red Cross training as a defense measure.

During the annual Roll Call period, November 11 through 30, I urge every American able to do so to become a member of the local chapter of the American Red Cross. Through your generous response at this time, the Red Cross will be enabled to meet the responsibilities of an unpredictable year, a year when it will be needed most in answering the challenge of world events.

Sonja Must Pay

New York, Nov. 12 (AP)—A sealed verdict opened in State Supreme Court today ordered Sonja Henie, movie star and four-time Olympic skating champion, to pay $77,113 to Dennis R. Scanlan of St. Paul, Minn., who contended he was under oral contract to her as manager, Scanlan, who claimed credit for introducing Miss Henie to this country where she began her movie career, sued for $67,614 for managerial services. The verdict also awarded him $9,498 as interest from June 18, 1937, when the suit was filed. Miss Henie was not in court when the verdict reached last Friday, was handed to Justice Aaron Steuer.

12 Deaths Listed From Food Doled At Social Center

Pittsburgh, Nov. 12 (AP)—Doctors and chemists at three hospitals today strove to save the lives of 43 men stricken by food poisoning—believed to be from roach powder baked in pancakes—which killed 12 wayfarers at a Salvation Army home yesterday.

The stricken men were among 70 partaking of an Armistice Day breakfast at the "army's" quarters.

The cook, Arthur Wilson, 30, who Coroner P. J. Henney said mixed the pancake batter, was among those ill. He told authorities he had no idea how the roach powder came to be mixed into the batter.

Adjutant Roy Barber told detectives there was a supply of the insect powder in the kitchen supply room when he took over management of the Salvation Army home in September.

Barber said that when he took over the management he asked a former cook, in charge at that time, if he had any of the powder used to exterminate insects. He said the former cook showed him a package of it in the supply cupboard adjoining the kitchen.

The former cook, who was discharged three weeks ago, was held by Philadelphia police for questioning.

Date Changed

Those who will take part in the every member canvass of St. John's Church will meet in the parish house on Monday evening, November 18, instead of this Wednesday evening as originally planned.

Church Reception
Ellenville, Nov. 12—A reception and informal program was held at the Methodist Church Friday evening, November 8, in celebration of the completion of the new annex to the church building. This addition is to be used as a recreation hall, choir room, Sunday school class rooms and for other purposes. The formal dedication of the annex took place at the regular worship service Sunday morning. The program at Friday's service consisted mainly of music and readings. Short addresses were given by members of the local clergy and those attending greeted the Rev. Charles A. Dann, a former pastor; his daughter, Mrs. Elmer E. Count, Jr., and Miss Evelyn Dann, who came here for the occasion. The Rev. Mr. Dann also gave an address. Mrs. Elmer E. Count, Sr., was also present. Refreshments consisting of ice cream and cake were served by the Friendship Club.

The formal dedication of the social center of the Methodist Church was held at the regular morning service on Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. The Rev. Thomas H. E. Richards, a former pastor of the church, preached at the evening services Sunday evening. Music at this service was furnished by the junior choir, which was organized by the Rev. Mr. Richards during his pastorate here, 1925-1928.

Village Notes

Ellenville, Nov. 12—Mrs. John Freer and Mrs. Ioana Westbrook will be hostesses to the Hunt Memorial Bible Class at the church parlors Monday evening.

A "Book Week Tea" will be held in the library building on Thursday, November 14, from 4 to 6 o'clock. This affair is being sponsored by Mrs. Ben M. Taylor and Miss Bertha Demarest of the public library and Miss Kathryn S. Wilkins of the high school library. Many recent books will be on display and a play entitled "Ladies of Literature" will be presented at 4 o'clock by members of the Library Club of the Ellenville High School. The public is invited to attend.

Representative Martin (R. Mass.), the Republican leader, said that he believed "in this great crisis it would be most unfortunate" for Congress to go home.

Martin, who indicated yesterday that he would retire from the chairmanship of the Republican National Committee within a few months, said that he believed the House ways and means committee should begin studying the tax problem now rather than waiting until next spring to work on a revenue bill.

Speaker Rayburn, on the other hand, said he believed the problem of new tax legislation could be deferred until the new year.

Cleveland Selects 'Rog' Peckinpaugh

New Indian Manager Signs Two-Year Contract

Cleveland, Nov. 12 (AP)—Roger Peckinpaugh is the new manager of the Cleveland Indians baseball team.

In taking the job Peckinpaugh becomes baseball rarity—twice manager of the same major league club. His previous tenure, started in 1928, ended with his discharge in mid-season 1933.

"Peck," who is 49 and was once a star shortstop, succeeds Oscar Vitt, who was released after he led the rebellious Tribe into second place this year.

Alva Bradley, the club president who fired Peckinpaugh seven years ago, announced Peckinpaugh signed a two-year contract today.

"Cooperation between highway officials and farmers will reduce maintenance costs along highways, bridges, and culverts, otherwise the use of publicly owned equipment on private lands would be unconstitutional and illegal. The creation of soil conservation districts, therefore, becomes an important agency in the development of New York state agriculture."

Since 1938, the speed of American-built fighting planes has increased on an average of 30 per cent. In the case of several of our pursuit planes, speed has advanced far beyond that percentage. It has passed 400 miles per hour and continued clear off the graph.

Proposal Is Made To Local Brewery

Bankrupt Barmann Corp. Has Offer From Concern in Newark, N. J.

A hearing on a proposal in bankruptcy made by Poth Distributor Corp., of Newark, N. J., to the Peter Barmann Brewery, Inc., of this city is scheduled for 2 o'clock Friday afternoon before Walter J. Miller, referee in bankruptcy, it was announced today.

The proposal, as outlined, is explained as follows by Referee Miller:

"Upon reading the annexed petition of John M. Cashin, Esq., receiver, verified the 11th day of November, 1940, and upon all the proceedings heretofore had herein, and sufficient cause appearing therefore let the creditors of the bankrupt herein, and any and all persons in interest, show cause before me on Friday, November 15, 1940, at 2 p. m., in the supervisors' rooms, county court house, Kingston, why the offer of the Poth Distributor Corporation of Newark, N. J., or any other better offer that may be made in the interim, etc., should not be accepted."

"The offer of the Poth Distributor Corporation of Newark is that it will pay to the bankrupt the sum of 75 cents per barrel of beer; that it will pay the taxes due the United States government, consisting of $6.00 per barrel; that it will furnish its own trucks and take the beer from the platform of the bankrupt; and that in addition thereto, will pay the sum of $1.00 per gross for all bottles furnished by the brewery as containers for the beer; and that it will buy the beer with no recovery or set-off against the bankrupt for leakers, bad beer, or other defect in product."

Since the start of the European war, Sept. 1, 1939, and through Sept. 30, 1940, the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce reports, direct aircraft and engine manufacturing employment has increased more than 170 per cent. There were 46,200 men at work in the plane and motor plants on Sept. 1, 1939. On Sept. 30, 1940, 125,000 men were at work in these plants.

Armistice Observed At 22nd Annual Ball

Amid gay decorations featuring American flags and gold stars, approximately 1,500 celebrated the 22nd anniversary of the signing of the World War armistice at the annual Victory Ball at the municipal auditorium Monday evening under the auspices of Kingston Post, American Legion.

A special Armistice Day ceremony was conducted at 11 o'clock as general dancing was stopped while several members of Kingston Post, dressed in their colorful uniforms, presented the American Legion Memorial to the World War dead. The stage setting for this impressive service depicted Arlington cemetery and the tomb of the unknown soldier with a Gold Star mother and her husband visiting the grave of their son who died in conflict. During their visit the son appeared before them and pledged that America would uphold democracy against Nazism, Fascism and Communism but promised that never again would American soldiers fight on foreign battlefields. Taking part in this scene were Mrs. E. N. Jansen, Martin Kelly, John McCutcheon and Lester Elmendorf, Jr.

The customary 11 o'clock ceremony was preceded by a program of six vaudeville acts introduced by Billy Vine. Kay and Karol in a dazzling juggling novelty act were presented in the first act, and were followed by Vitta Gibson, radio star of song, and three negro dancers billed as "Gentlemen of Rhythm," who proved the most popular of the evening's entertainers.

Other acts were Wilbur Hall and Rachel Fields in a musical novelty act, the Gray family, five sisters and one brother in a singing and dancing act, and Billy Vine in a comedy act of his own. Also on the program was Katherine Carchidi, local eight-year-old singer, who was presented at the conclusion of the program.

Mayor Conrad J. Heiselman, a past commander of Kingston Post, officially opened the program with a short address of welcome reminding his audience that the American Legion has always stood for "100 per cent Americanism" and national defense. The members, he said, were willing to sacrifice their lives for their country in 1917 and are willing to do so today.

General dancing, which began about 10:15 o'clock was resumed after the pause for the memorial ceremonies with Jacob Mollett's and Paul Zucca's orchestra alternating for the playing.

Surprise Shower

On Friday evening a surprise shower was held at the home of Mrs. Matthew Fowler on Schryver street, Port Ewen for her niece, Miss Irene Doyle, who is to be married to Irving Maurer on Thanksgiving Day. Mrs. Fowler was assisted by Miss Pauline Doyle. The home was decorated for the occasion in pink and blue. A buffet supper was served at midnight. Those present were: Mrs. Emma Clark, Mrs. Pearl Hansen, Mrs. Janice Wolf, Mrs. Bertha Doyle, Mrs. Agnes Doyle, Mrs. Theresa Doyle, Mrs. Edith Lavin, Mrs. Margaret Reynolds, Mrs. Mabel Yesso, Mrs. Minna Walker, Mrs. C. Gavit, Mrs. Catherine Polhemus, Mrs. Julia Doyle, Mrs. Jeannette Fowler, the Misses Anna Clark, Doris Windrum, Adele Black, Belle Black, Mary Polhemus, Roberta Hotelling, Edna Gavit, Rose Clark, Katherine Hummel and Claudia Wells of Port Ewen; Mrs. Elizabeth Maurer, Mrs. Mollie Maurer, Mrs. Violet Maurer, Mrs. Gertrude Maurer, Mrs. Ella Beschok, Mrs. Elizabeth Murphy and Miss Helen Maurer of Connelly, and Mrs. Elma Kelly, Mrs. Lulu Barth, Mrs. Florence Craver, Miss Mary Rafferty of Kingston.

The ceremony was performed at the home of the Rev. Mr. Baines, 36 Esopus avenue. The attendants were Mrs. Leona Gardiner and Clarence Osterhout.

Plays Reviewed at 20th Century

The Twentieth Century Club met Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Robert P. Baylor, 270 Clinton avenue. Roll call was responded to by Mrs. Weldon J. McCluskey with a group of readings. Mrs. C. B. Dickinson presented a splendid review of the play, "There Shall Be No Night." The second paper, prepared by Mrs. J. C. Fraser and read by Mrs. E. O. Allen, was a review of the play, "Susanna and the Elders." The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Elmer Van Tassel, 27 Washington avenue in November 25.

Minstrel and Ball

The seventh annual minstrel and ball of the Church of the Immaculate Conception will be held at the White Eagle Hall, Delaware avenue, Monday and Tuesday evenings, November 18 and 19. The program will begin at 8 o'clock and will be followed by dancing at 10 o'clock. Bill Houghtaling is directing the minstrel. A rehearsal for the children will be held Sunday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock.

Exchange Card Party

Members of the executive board of the Woman's Exchange met Monday at the home of the president, Mrs. Alva Staples, to make plans for a card party to be held December 3 at the Governor Clinton Hotel. Playing will begin at 2 o'clock. A food sale will also be held in conjunction with the card party. Reservations may be made with Mrs. Staples or at the Woman's Exchange.

Leading Actors in Junior League Childrens' Play, 'Titian'

Kingston children between the ages of eight and 16 will be entertained tomorrow by the Junior League, which will present its children's play, "Titian," at the high school auditorium at 7 o'clock in the evening. The play will be repeated on Thursday at the same time. At the top left is Mrs. William T. Fuller as Father Anton, the village priest and Mrs. Herbert Johnson as Tiziano Vecelli (Titian). In the center is Mrs. Newton H. Fessenden as Signior Zampanti, father of Titian's friend, Salvatore, and at the top right Titian with Mrs. Paul Perlman as Salvatore Zampanti. Below, left is Mrs. Terry Staples as Signior Bellini, the artist from Venice who comes to judge the paintings and right, Johnson in the leading role pictured alone.

The play is based on an episode in the life of the childhood of the artist, Titian, and is under the direction of Ezra McIntosh. As an added attraction James Laurie and his eight piece orchestra will play during the intermission and before the curtain rises. Tickets may be purchased for a nominal fee at the public schools or from Mrs. N. Le Van Haver.

Hotel Stuyvesant Opens
Attractive County Room

A large gathering of people attended the new "County Room" at the Hotel Stuyvesant Saturday evening. Music for dancing was furnished by Jules Teller Trio with vocal selections by Emily Lynn Clark.

The general color scheme of the "County Room" is blue, rose, and buff, and the walls are decorated with murals depicting scenes within Ulster county. Indirect lighting throughout the room furnishes a subdued light, and venetian blinds at the windows add to the effect of comfort and pleasantness.

The "County Room," under the personal direction of Hamilton
Laurie, will be open to the public for modern coffee shop and cocktail lounge, and will be available for banquets, bridge parties, and other social affairs. Dancing will be observed each Saturday evening.

PATTERN 9559

9559

A really well-designed house-frock should be the sort of style you can wear with assurance, in or out of the house! And that is a perfect description of this new Marian Martin Pattern, 9559, with its simple lines that are equally becoming to the size thirty-six and the size fifty figure. The rounded yokes are decorative and useful, too, as they serve to hold in place the nice bodice softness. The neckline is very flattering, the buttoning down the front of the bodice lets you dress without mussing your curls. Have the short sleeves straight or in easy flares. Isn't the skirt well-cut, with its front and back panels that may be either straight-grain or on the bias? The optional pockets are a smart touch ric-rac makes an attractive trim.

Pattern 9559 may be ordered only in women's sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, and 50. Size 36 requires 3 1/2 yards 35 inch fabric and 2 1/2 yards ric-rac.

Banish Figure Faults
With Right Exercise

Slim Heavy Thighs and Hips

A mystery to many an active woman why she has those distressing large thighs and hips —giving her such a matronly silhouette, spreading so unbeauti-fully when she sits down!
Usually, the reason is lack of the right exercise. Active though you may be, if you use your legs only in a backward and forward movement you'll collect fatty pads on the outside of the thigh, you'll bulge at the hips.

Give a few minutes a day to this simple leg exercise with a side-to-side movement—and you soon see those bulges disappearing. Hips and thighs again have the lovely slim lines of youth.

NEWS!

I t's deep-rooted and ever-present and universal...this craving for the news. We give it direct expression every time we greet a friend with "What's new?" We let it have full reign when we reach for the daily newspaper.

What's new? What did the school board decide last night? Did Mrs. Taylor get her divorce? How was the concert? What's going on in Washington? London? Berlin? Moscow? Tokyo? Rome? Who was elected president of the Ladies' Auxiliary? What did the raiding bombers do today? Did copper go up or down? Who won the game?

What's new?...in politics, business, foreign affairs... in society, sports, fashions...in music, art and the theatre? We want to know...because we are curious by nature, because we like to be well-informed...and because we realize that each day's events may affect our welfare and our happiness.

Only in newspapers can we satisfy this constant hunger for the news. Only in newspapers can we get a quick, complete and accurate account of happenings at home and abroad.

And today, when the news is so vitally important to all of us, we read the newspaper more eagerly, more thoroughly than ever before. That's why the newspaper, which has always been a profitable medium for advertisers, is a more profitable medium today than ever before.

SOME OF THE ADVANTAGES

OF NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING

With newspaper advertising you can... (1) reach the LARGEST NUMBER of your potential customers... (2) tell your story to the WHOLE FAMILY... (3) concentrate your efforts on the markets that offer the BEST OPPORTUNITIES... (4) TIME YOUR ADVERTISING to meet your needs and changing conditions
... (5) get QUICK RESULTS when you want them... (6) BUILD GOOD-WILL as well as sales... (7) tie your message TO THE NEWS and make it more interesting... (8) give your ads a LOCAL TOUCH, a home-town flavor... (9) ILLUSTRATE YOUR PRODUCT and its uses... (10) NAME THE LOCAL STORES that sell your product... (11) step up DEALER DISTRIBUTION and dealer cooperation... and (12) do all this at a LOWER COST than with any other medium.

City Draft Board Completes Record Of Local Numbers

Kingston's Selective Service Board has completed the work of compiling the order numbers of the 3,171 men who registered in the city for the first peace time draft in the country's history.

The numbers range from 1 to 3171, inclusive.

Both the serial and order number has been affixed to each registrant's name, and the list as compiled by the board is now exhibited in the corridor outside the office of the board in the basement of the Central Post Office.

Those who registered in the draft and are anxious to know what their order number is may look over the lists.

11 o'clock Ceremony at Victory Ball

Freeman Photo

The 22nd annual Victory Ball, sponsored by Kingston Post, No. 150, American Legion, was held last evening at the municipal auditorium with a very large crowd in attendance. Probably the most impressive part of this ball was the 11 o'clock ceremony. Above a section of the setting with the participants is shown. Kneeling and placing a wreath on one of the graves is Mrs. B. Jansen, representing a gold star mother. The others are, left to right, John Patrick McCutcheon, Martin F. Kelly, who portrayed the unknown soldier; Lester Elmendorf, Jr., sentry, and William Jordan, who wrote the script and directed the ceremony.

SAUGERTIES NEWS

Saugerties, Nov. 11—The third district conference of American Legion Auxiliaries was held in Catskill Thursday. Local Auxiliary of Legion Post No. 72 was represented by Mrs. Addie Palmer and Mrs. Matthew Cox at the meeting. Others from the local organization were Mrs. Hampton Robinson, Mrs. Walter Rittie and Mrs. John Doran, chairman of the district presided. A turkey dinner was served to those attending which numbered over 150.

The second meeting of Mt. Marion Jr. American Citizens Club was held in the school house Friday afternoon. This club will be known as the "Thomas Jefferson J. A. C. Club," which is connected with the Saugerties J. A. C. This club is under the leadership of Mrs. Harold B. Lane of this village.

The West Camp Parent-Teacher Association will hold its meeting at the school house Thursday evening, November 14, at 7:30 o'clock. Mr. and Mrs. J. Mower of Floral Park, L. I., were recent guests of his brother, Newton Mower, on Partition street.

Mr. and Mrs. William Thornton of Elm street spent the past week-end in New York.

A community chorus of over 50 voices will take part in a program of Christmas carols in the Reformed Church auditorium on Main street Sunday, December 15, under the direction of Rolland E. Heermance. Those taking part in the program will come from Catskill, Kiskatom, Saugerties, Leeds and Athens. The accompanist will be Maurice Montaperto of the N. Y. S. Vocational Training Institution of Coxsackie.

The Saugerties Chamber of Commerce held its regular meeting at Thornton's Grill last Thursday evening with President John C. Sauer in charge of the program. The airplane parts factory proposed was discussed. A committee was appointed to encourage the authorities to bring the plant here. The Ulster avenue crossing project of the West Shore Railroad will be on the 1941 program. Permission was granted the D. A. R. to repaint and care for the markers sponsored by this organization about the village a few years ago. The matter of starting a Community Chest was tabled for further consideration.

The Saugerties Draft Board, No. 314, has been advised by headquarters in Albany not to send out questionnaires to registrants until they are advised of the local board's quota. This will greatly aid the local board and eliminate the re-qualifying of registrants who may never be called to service in the U. S. army.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Goodman of Green street, Kingston, spent Sunday with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Benton on Elm street.

The annual Roll Call for the American Red Cross is under way in this village and will continue until November 30.

The Rev. and Mrs. H. O. Ellsworth, former pastor of the First Baptist Church in this village, have closed their camp at Athens and will spend the winter in Florida.

Harry Hansen of Washington,
